

The journey...

You can find Peru in the West of South America. Its main capital is Lima. Lima is also a brand of tea and we'll talk about tea too, for a bit... But now, let's start.

Plane Tickets

Tickets for the flight aren't included. Please buy them at least five months ahead of time, so the price is as low as possible. And if you're in a group, this way you can assure you're all on the same flight.

Standard schedule

This can be adapted or changed any way possible, as you see fit...

Day 1: Arrival in Lima. we also stay here for the night.

Day 2: Departure to Cuzco. we spend the night in Urubamba, in the Sacred Valley. We have a walk and later dinner with locals.

Day 3: We start our day with a shamanic ritual from Don Juan and we have the afternoon off.

Day 4: We go to an old Inca site in Ollantaytambo and we spend the night Ollantaytambo, with locals.

Day 5: We go back to Cuzco, along the way we go to Chinchero, which has a lovely market. We spend the night in Cuzco.

Day 6: We go to Sacsayhuaman, we have the afternoon off. And we spend the night in Cuzco.

Day 7: Walk within the old Inca ruins off Pisac, we spend the night in Cuzco.

Day 8 - 13: We leave to the Andes mountains, to meet there with the Q'eros. We go to a pickup point with a minibus. From there on, transport within the mountains is by horse only. We spend the nights in tents in the mountains. On day 13 we leave to a pickup point where the driver from the minibus takes us to Cuzco.

Day 14: Day off in Cuzco.

Day 15: We leave with the bus to lake Titicaca, where we get picked up by a boat that brings us to the island of Amantani. We spend the night in Amantani.

Day 16: We walk to the ruins of both Pachamama and Pachatata and have the rest of the day off.

Day 17: We leave with the boat to the busstop and we go back to Cuzco with the bus. and spend the night there.

Day 18: We go to Macchu Picchu by minibus and train, we also spend the night there.

Day 19: We go to the busstop early in the morning to see the sunrise from Macchu Picchu and afterwards we explore this sacred valley. We have dinner in a fancy restaurant and spend our last night in Macchu Picchu.

Day 20: We go back to Cuzco by train and minibus.

Day 21: Flight back home.

Pricing

Complete package: €3500. All included, except personal spendings and the international and national flights.

Do contact us for more information and a personal package!

